MEXICAN CHIEF BACKS PEACE AGITATION STOP RENT PROFITEERING IN LIMA LINES DRAWN FOR BIG STEEL STRIKE FIGHT

BOTH SIDES CLAIM THE ADVANTAGE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—Re-ports that the United States Steel corporation would shut down its plants in the Pittsburgh district unless there was 100 per cent loyalty shown by the workers were denied today at the offices of the Carnegie Steel company, a subsidiary. The plants will operate as long as men report for work, it was said.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—All plants of the United States Steel corporation in the Pittsburgh district, where any employee is a member of the steel workers' union, will be shut down tonight for an indefinite period, according to reports in circulation here last night. The reports could not be verified officially, but originated from a trustworthy source, according to a local news bureau.

Plants that are 100 per cent loyal remain in operation and loyal men in those plants which will close will be taken care of by the company, the reports say.

Mills which were reported to close tonight include those at Rankin, Braddock, Etna and Homestead and in Pittsburgh proper.

From the same source, a report was circulated that the Sonora plant, the largest zinc plant of the United States Steel corporation will remain in operation as the employees sent a delegation to officers of the company assuring them of 100 per cent loyalty.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Final preparations in the Chicago district for handling the strike of steel workers called for Monday had been made today and 25 union organizers were on their way to different cities to aid local union officials. The organizers were under instructions to notify independent steel mill owners the strike would remain in force against them until they "signed up" but that the national strike committee would arrange any conferences they might request.

From Gary, Ind., in the Chicago district where is located one of the country's greatest plants, with 19,000 employees, came reports that both sides were drawing lines for a finish fight. Employers claimed 82 per cent of the workmen did not favor a strike and union leaders asserted 90 per cent of the employees would go out.

Yankees Leave Siberia Enroute For America

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 20.—The transport Logan with 1250 American troops, principally members of the 27th Infantry left for the United States today by way of Manila and would arrive in San Francisco about October 2. Replacement troops at Vlad here on September 6.

Firemen Trying to Save Oil Tank During Big Brooklyn Blaze

DAMAGE amounting to nearly $2,000,000 resulted from the spectacular Standard Oil fire in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn. Tank after tank of oil and naphtha exploded, sending clouds of smoke over Greater New York. At night pillars of flame lighted up the sky. Scores of firemen were treated for blistered feet caused by the burning oil which covered a large area.

PEACE AGENT ADMITS CARRANZA PAID HIM $3,400 AS EXPENSES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Dr. Henry Allen Tupper told the Senate sub-committee investigating the Mexican situation that he had received approximately $3,400 from the Carranza government in settlement of expenses he had incurred. Documentary evidence has been submitted to the committee indicating that Dr. Tupper had been on the Carranza payroll, presumably for his work for peace under the supervision of the International Peace Forum.

The witness said he repeatedly had refused remuneration for his services but when pressed by Charles A. Douglas, then attorney for the Carranza government, had accepted the draft, which was made a part of the committee's report last week. He claimed the payment was on a basis of expenses of $7 a day and said he had received no other payment of any sort.

Dr. Tupper also admitted that Carranza had presented his daughter with a wrist watch and himself with a watch and fob engraved with an expression of friendship.

"Accepted as a Gentleman"
"These," he said "I accepted as a gentleman."
Dr. Tupper said he had approved the pursuit of Villa by Pershing and regretted it had not been more successful. As to intervention, he said he believed it should be resorted to only as the "last of last resorts."

a letter from Mr. Douglas, saying that reimbursement was due to him as he had "worked ably for the cause of the revolution."

On cross-examination Dr. Tupper said there were numerous provisions of the Mexican constitution of 1917, which he could not approve. Development of education had not been as rapid as he expected he said.

Larry Writings Discussed
Regarding his earlier writings on the Mexican problem, he said:

"I have changed my mind on a number of those subjects. At that time I thought I knew all about it. 'Now I know I don't.'"

Chairman Albert B. Fall read into the record the report of I. C. Weller, who was in charge of an American

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Preparations for the organization of the League of Nations are being made in London by Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general and Raymond B. Fosdick, an American under-secretary, so that the league will be in readiness to function at its first meeting to be called in Washington. The date of this meeting is undecided.

Colonel E. M. House and Lord Robert Cecil and other members of the Organization Committee of the League have been taking part in the preliminary organization work. The Organization Committee already has adopted a resolution contemplating that member states may assign some of their own officials for service under the League and has recommended that "the governments of states members of the League shall take into consideration the services of their officials in the International Secretariat."

ROME TURNS GUNS UPON D'ANNUNZIO

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
PARIS, Sept. 20.—Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio may be given 24 hours to move his forces out of Fiume, upon which city a squadron of allied warships have turned their guns, according to advices received here by way of Berlin, Laibach and Vienna.

It is indicated that this ultimatum will come from the allied powers, representatives of which are reported to have conferred at Abbazia about two miles northwest of Fiume to which place they retired when Captain D'Annunzio entered the latter city.

In peace conference circles it is intimated the settlement of the question of the disposition of Fiume has been complicated by D'Annunzio's coup but Italian delegates insist a decision is being delayed because of the fact that President Wilson has not answered definite proposals made by Italy's representatives here. Americans assert the Italians are constantly changing the detail of their offer and that for this reason an answer has so far been impossible.

Advices from Rome say that the Duke of Aosta, a close friend of Captain D'Annunzio, has conferred with King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Nitti and it is suggested he may act as mediator in an effort to bring about an abandonment of Fiume by the D'Annunzio forces.

Fiume is closely blockaded by land and sea, but there are stores in the city sufficient to maintain the people and troops for three months. Captain D'Annunzio is reported to have with him many members of his famous aerial squadron which fought on the Austrian front during war. The Italian government, however, has ordered the magazines of airplanes at all aviation camps removed so that no more machines may go to Fiume.

Red Cross expedition in Mexico in 1915. Until the present the report had been withheld from publication. It told of an attack on the Red Cross train and the difficulties thrown by Carranza officers about the work of distribution. The opposition was so great that further effort to continue the work was useless, Mr. Weller reported, and the expedition was withdrawn.

PLANS FOR ORGANIZATION OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS GO FORWARD

understood to have arrived at the opinion that it would be desirable to invite a number of eminent international jurists to give their opinions on the constitution of such a court, and has voted to take up the question in detail at some subsequent meetings. The action of the committee is said to indicate that the work of organizing such a court will be carried forward from the point where it was started by the United States at The Hague twelve years ago, when Elihu Root, then Secretary of State, in his instructions to the American delegates charged them to work for the creation of an international court about twice the size in membership of the Supreme Court of the United States.

LANDLORDS MUST PLAY FAIR WITH THEIR TENANTS

Unreasonable and Unwarranted Raises in Rent Will Be Followed by Tax
Adjustments

Many Properties Not on Duplicate for Worth, Yet Rents Have Been Raised Arbitrarily

Does profiteering in the renting of residences and apartments in Lima exist? Times readers who constantly complain to this paper say that it does.

They say that rents have been raised arbitrarily in Lima because houses are so scarce that if for any reason one has to move it's almost impossible to get another house within a reasonable range of prices.

A certain increase in rentals has been made necessary. But without doubt some landlords have gone beyond the proper point and have tacked on a profit that is profiteering.

Renters are powerless because if they make complaint they lose their homes and are compelled to move.

The Lima Times believes it sees a way out. REAL ESTATE IN LIMA IS TAXED BELOW ITS WORTH. Few landlords are paying taxes on property to the extent of its present-day value. Many real estate deals are being made weekly at prices thousands and thousands of dollars beyond the tax-duplicate assessment placed on the land.

This paper believes it the duty of every newspaper to work for the best interests of its city and its residents. It is to the best interests of Lima and its citizens, with an eye to its future growth, that landlords be paid only a reasonable rental, based on the worth of the property, taxes, upkeep, etc.

PROFITEERING, IF THERE BE ANY, MUST CEASE IN LIMA.

Renters are powerless, as said before. But they may send the facts of any unreasonable raise in their rent, to The Lima Times, and if the facts warrant, this paper will call the attention of the board of equalization to the renting value of the property. This will bring the PROFITEERING LANDLORD TO TIME.

Don't be afraid to send the facts (if your rent has been raised arbitrarily) to The Times. NAMES WILL NOT BE DIVULGED.

THIS PAPER WANTS TO BE OF AID TO YOU IF YOU ARE BEING HELD UP.

Fill out the blank and send it in to The Lima Times at your convenience. If an investigation shows that your landlord has been PROFITEERING he will be brought to time!

TEST UPON PEACE DUE NEXT WEEK

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Steps to expedite final action on the German peace treaty were under way today although the senate was not in session. Progress centered about reservation negotiations.

A number of informal conferences between senators advocating "mild" reservations and those favoring drastic reservations were understood to be planned. At the same time both sides in the controversy prepared for the first test of strength, expected early next week when the amendment to Article Three of the league of nations covenant to equalize the voting power of the United States and Great Britain in the assembly is reached.

Decision of republican leaders not to ask Senator Johnson, California author of the article three amendment to return from his speaking tour was received with varying interpretations. In republican circles it was said to indicate that the league amendment forces had enough assured votes to pass the amendment. Democratic supporters of the league covenant as drafted, however, were equally confident that all amendments would be defeated.

Death List of Texas Storm is Steadily Rising

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS, Sept. 20.—With the known dead now the 400 mark and steadily increasing, residents of Corpus Christi and other nearby Texas coast towns today resumed their search for bodies of additional persons who lost their lives through last Sunday's hurricane and tidal waves.

The number of known dead was 456, but many persons were of the opinion that it would be double that number when all of the shore line and wreckage had been thoroughly searched.

In Corpus Christi proper conditions were becoming more nearly normal today. Although electric lights and street car service may not be restored for some time the announcement that it was hoped to turn on gas in some of the less damaged parts of the city late today was hailed with delight.

According to a statement issued by the principal relief committee, clothing and financial assistance constitute the immediate needs of the refugees and the people of the nation were called upon to render assistance. The food situation was said to be satisfactory.

Carry Off Safe With $1,200 in It At Toledo

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 20.—Despite shots fired at them, thieves early today escaped with a 500 pound safe containing $1,200.

John Salweisz, owner of the store in which the safe was placed was awakened by the thieves as they were entering the place. He heard the safe being moved, ran into the store and fired. The men had dragged the safe to the door, and although the proprietor continued his fusillade, they placed their bulky booty in an automobile and fled. Later the safe was found opened and empty on the Dixie Highway.

TEST CASES TO BE TRIED IN OHIO FOOD FIGHT NEXT WEEK

Alleged Profiteers Are to Be Called to Answer Charges in Court

RETAIL TRADE HIT

Second Stage Reached in State Campaign Against H. C. L.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—Next week Ohio will enter upon the second stage of its campaign against high food prices. Trials will begin in several cities to test the indictments returned against alleged food profiteers, while there are other places in which new grand jury investigations will be launched.

State authorities report that since they have seen the inquiries started, local authorities have taken them up and it has been unnecessary for the state to do more than be a clearing house of information.

If legal assistance is needed in the trials it will be furnished. This applies especially if verdicts of guilty are returned which will have to be sustained in reviewing courts.

Supreme Court May Aid

It is anticipated that arrangements will be made as soon as possible for bringing to Supreme Court cases in convictions were obtained in Municipal Courts and before magistrates of violations of the South cold storage act.

By this means the constitutionality of the act may be determined finally, since the point was not raised fairly, it is said, in the Columbus Packing Company case.

Prediction was made today that a further movement against high prices soon will be launched. It is understood that in some quarters the easing off of activity by the state itself has not been understood properly.

For example, the case of meats is taken. Prices were reduced through sales of army food and wholesale prices also were reduced materially. The state now is buying meat for state wards in various institutions at figures which practically are as low as those which prevailed before America entered the world war.

Retail Trade Hit
In many instances, however, the retail trade is said to be slow to make reductions corresponding to those in the wholesale trade. Time was granted for the disposition of stocks on hand, which apparently had been purchased at former prevailing high prices.

In not a single Ohio city outside of Cleveland have the advertised "fair price" committees begun work to stop alleged extortion, and this delay and the easing off of the agitation is said to give encouragement to profiteers.

Alleged practices of a large section of the retail trade in foods in many cities are said to be adding to the discontent and to be furnishing the agitators with a pretext for their never would prove to be effective.

As a protection for business itself, paring down of prices soon is to be urged further. The average of cuts in prices thus far has been 10 per cent, but this is felt to be insufficient, and a further cut of at least 15 per cent is said to be needed.

JURY DRAWN FOR HOLLENBACHER MURDER HEARING

Thirty-Six Names Drawn Today of Men to Try Lima Man

SHOWS SOME REGRET

Murderer Has Dropped Stoicism and Claims to Be Sorry

This morning the special venire from which the jury will be selected to hear the Carl Hollenbacher trial, was drawn from the jury wheel. Thirty-six names were picked out. Hollenbacher will be tried for murder in the first degree on for November 10.

The names drawn from the jury wheel this morning are:

Charles H. Lamb, Lima; Ramon Harris, Lima; John H. Newman; Lima; T. L. Ridenour, Perry township; W. R. Price, Sugar Creek township; A. J. Driver, Lima; Frank Brown, Lima; Thomas Fleming, Lafayette; H. D. Faulkner, Harrod; Mack Altschul, Lima; W. W. Contris, West Minister; John Brown, Lima; Jacob Wise, Bluffton.

El McBride, Elida; Joe Metzger, Delphos; George W. Bowers, Beavertown; J. D. Marx, Sugar Creek township; S. M. Rhabes, Lima; Orlo Marshall, Richland township; D. H. Counsellor, Elida; D. R. Thomas, Lima; A. R. King, Delphos; Frank Sherrick, Beavertown; Robert Ireland, Lima; C. C. Williams, Lima; D. A. Drake, Lima; O. B. May, Lafayette; Peter Leis, Spencerville; J. L. Owens, Bluffton; Samuel Schindler, West Cairo; N. W. Cunningham, Bluffton; B. P. Hill, Lima; Henry Steinhil, Lima; L. Hullinger, Lima; William Rusler, Shawnee township; I. M. Jennings, Richland township.

Hollenbacher, on June 19, shortly before 9 o'clock entered the yard of his former mother-in-law at 138 South Park avenue, and going up to Pearl Hollenbacher, his divorced wife, placed a revolver to her right breast and fired, according to his story told police shortly after the murder was committed.

Attempts Suicide

He then turned the revolver upon himself and fired, the bullet entering his head from the right side was later taken out of his right eye. For days Hollenbacher hovered between life and death. In the meanwhile the eye ball was removed, and the man grew rapidly better.

He was arraigned in police court, and being bound over to the grand jury was lodged in county jail. When arraigned in common pleas court a few days ago, Hollenbacher presented a sorry sight. He has lost much weight during his imprisonment, and his remaining eye is very dull. Garbed in a dark suit of clothes and a red sweater which is several times too large around the neck for him, he resembled a condemned man rather than one who is about to enter a plea for his life.

Is Sorry Now

Hollenbacher talks rationally enough now, professing sorrow for the deed. When he was incarcerated in city prison the man refused to talk to anyone. Police Chief Roush endeavored to make him talk on several occasions, but other than once to tell the story of the deed, police say he refused to have anything to say.

For days he lay in the city prison, never opening his mouth and eyes except when he partook of the frugal meals. When taken to city hospital where the operation was performed, Hollenbacher's clothes were taken from him, and a guard was placed over his cot day and night. Even then, however, he refused to talk.

He has not shown the slightest interest in the fate of his wife and has asked no particulars of the sequel to the tragedy.

Boys Thought to Have Stolen Candy

Thieves, last night entered The Koonitz Grocery Company at Pine and Vine streets, and stole a quantity of candy, chewing gum and tobacco. Police are of the opinion the robbery is the work of boys, as there was nothing of any value taken. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear window.

MEN SCARCE FOR THE JOBS OFFERED

The scarcity of male labor which has prevailed in Lima for the past several weeks, has not brightened any, according to Mr. Baker, in charge of the U. S. Employment office at Memorial Hall. Quite a number of calls are being received at the office for men to do various kinds of work, but the majority of the men who are out of work do not care to take up a new kind of work with which they are unfamiliar.

The condition in the women's division is exactly the opposite to that of the men, as daily dozens of calls are being received for women to work in offices, factories or as domestics at good pay, and which cannot be filled.

ORDERS NEW TRIAL OF RENTAL CASE

For the third time in more than two years the case of Steve Yosely against John O'Connell will be heard in court. In January, 1917, Yosely filed suit against the defendant, claiming that O'Connell violated his written contract.

O'Connell, it is stated, rented a room to Yosely for the purpose of operating a restaurant, and in the contract it was stated no other part of the building would be let as a place where lunches were served. Later O'Connell secured a renter for the remainder of the building, and this person opened a hotel and boarding house.

Yosely claimed this a violation of the contract and sued O'Connell for $1000. He was awarded judgment in this sum, but the case was taken to the supreme court, which reversed the verdict.

Yosely again filed suit for a like amount, and again was awarded judgment. A while later, however, the judgment was cut to $500, and Yosely was instructed by the court to either accept this amount or the defendant's motion for a new trial would be sustained. Yosely refused to accept this judgment, and today a motion for a new trial was sustained by Judge Klingler.

KAHS CLAIM DAMAGE

Claiming that the present river improvements have damaged their property to the extent of $2,000 and more will be done if any more earth is allowed to be removed, George and Charles W. Kah today filed suit for that amount and asked for an injunction restraining the city from continuing taking earth away from their property.

PALMER URGES AN ARMISTICE IN INDUSTRIAL LINES

FREEPORT, Pa., Sept. 20.—An absolute industrial armistice for six months was urged by Attorney General Palmer here today to permit the solution of economic problems arising out of the changes wrought by war. Such a period of freedom from unrest, he declared, would result soon in increased production which would bring about an era of "easier living and better times" for all. On the other hand, the attorney general warned, selfish demands by any one class can not stimulate the national prosperity or permanently benefit even those obtaining such demands by force. He discounted strikes.

"Labor is asking a larger share of the joint product of money, and labor and there is much merit in the claim," he said, "but the chance of getting it is not advanced nor the justice of it more widely recognized by the refusal of labor to produce."

The campaign to reduce the cost of living which is directing evidently was foremost in the attorney general's mind in his speech delivered at a reunion of the 73rd regiment of Pennsylvania volunteers, which also was a home coming celebration for men who served in the world war.

"The crying need of the world just now is for peace, and not political peace between governments alone but industrial peace amongst men also," he said.

"The things for which men fight are never settled while the war is on. An armistice must come. Heads must cool, and anger must spend itself before men can sit together and know what is best for themselves and give due consideration to the rights of others."

SETS FOR PROPERTY

Oliver Stophor, 701 North Collett street, this morning asked common pleas court to release property to him as it represented his personal earnings. Dr. E. D. Sinks recently secured a judgment against Stophor in Justice Hamilton's court for $50 claimed to be due the plaintiff for medical services rendered Stophor's wife. Stophor's salary was attached it is understood.

LUNCHEON-BRIDGE.

Mrs. John Alligrie presided charmingly at a handsomely appointed luncheon at the Elks club Saturday, in honor of the fiancée of her son, Miss Rowena Kahle, who in January will become the bride of William Lester Alligrie, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Alligrie.

The luncheon, served at 12:30 in the ball room of the Elks club was the prettiest and daintiest in its appointments that has been seen for many a day. One large table seating eight held a conspicuous place in the room, being in close communion with the smaller tables, where the other guests were seated.

The appointments of the bride-elects table were cleverly designed. Place cards were engagement rings surrounding a dear little cupid, while my baskets were in pink and there were pink roses tied with lavender tulle strewn over the snowy cloth. Those were given as favors. At the smaller tables place cards were little flower boys and girls, who appeared to be enjoying every minute of their time, and seemed to be ready at that very instant to precede the bridal party to the altar, so prettily were they attired.

Bridge followed the luncheon. Tables for play were arranged in the living room.

Guests of this delightful affair were, Miss Helen Basinger, Miss Nell Higley, Miss Martha Andrews, Miss Helen Kahle, of Boston; Miss Clara Bell, Miss Alice Bell, Miss Margaret Neuman, Miss Allene Hoover, Miss Mabel Cook, Miss Gertrude Spangnagle, Miss Fannie Hughes, Miss Esther Roberts, of Bridgeport, Connecticut; Miss Hazel Wright, Miss Grace Spallacy, Miss Gertrude Dooze, Miss Margaret Graham, Miss Betty Laughlin, Miss Florence and Emma Eddy, Miss Laura Mae Gillespie, Miss Bertha Bascombe, Miss Florence Price, Miss Dorothy Kahle, Miss Dorothy Collins, Miss Helen Hunter, Miss Irene O'Connor, and Mrs. Guy Cappa, Mrs. M. A Chance to Live

(By Zoe Beckley)

OTHERS ARE WORSE OFF

That her own dreams had not come fully true caused her less distress. She had the babies. And to a woman as feminine as she, husband, home and children were the vital facts of life, after all. From her neighbors she learned much that made her feel fortunate by comparison. Three of the children of the woman next door, the milk driver's wife, were sickly, one a crippled from being wrongly operated upon at a hospital clinic. The husband drank occasionally and came home ugly and brutal. Many a time Annie took the mother and the frightened children in to her own rooms while Bernice scuffled and argued, and finally scolded the drunk-influenced fellow across the hall.

On the first floor lived a family who were suffering from the starvation brought through a tailors' strike, which lasted almost a summer. Annie met the wife one day going out with the familiar newspaper bundle—the unfailing last resource of the tenement women. As Annie stepped in the lower hallway for a word with her, the woman's trembling hands held the parcel flat. A pair of men's shoes and a baby's coat spilled out.

"Ah—you'll not get more than fifty cents on those, Mrs. Rafetzky," the pawnbroker was no longer either a novel sight or experience. "Let me lend it to you—please." Her heart reared toward this neighbor who had so often in more prosperous times made little gifts of Passover wine or maybe a plate of fresh-cooked "latkes" or "egg matsoths" for the children of the "goyim" upstairs. Many the time, too, she had colds or fevers, proffering homely remedies and much sound advice.

The woman shook her head, however, and a light came into her dark eyes that reminded Annie of the "Firebrand girl."

"Oh veh!" she said, wrapping up the things again determinedly. "It's bad now, with the strike. But you can't have always luck. My husband is right. I couldn't want him to go back to work until it settled—and settled right. We have hard times, yes. But by and by it will come good times again." She shrugged her shoulders expressively. "I'll make do pinebroker gave me half a dollar on the shoes, and for the baby's coat fifteen cents—maybe twenty."

Annie called after her. "I've got to go out this afternoon for a couple of hours. Could your Sammie come upstairs and mind the children for me?" She knew she could reasonably give Sammie a quarter for his services and a dime for going to the store and that Sammie would immediately turn the money into the family treasury, with pride swelling his narrow little chest.

It was arranged and the small diplomacy achieved. The tenement poor have their codes and their prizes. As Annie looked back from her later life she knew she had never in fat years experienced such friendships as she had known in the lean sixteen street days.

Her errand that afternoon was a visit to Rose Gubin, who lived in the heart of the ghetto to the south. Her friendship with Rose had been cemented by another of those services which the poor render to the poor in times of need.

XXXIV—A CHANCE INFORMANT

"Where have you been, you radiant creature?" demanded Paul as I dashed into the apartment with wind-blown hair and shining eyes. "Having tea up the river with Billy Meredith's nephew."

"The saints defend us! She's even vamping the cradle," he exclaimed with mock horror, "I suppose you got a fine demonstration of puppy love."

"I got a fine coating of sunburn, so don't separate me from my cold cream a moment longer," I replied making for my room.

"But see here, Nell—I want to talk to you, wait a minute."

"Later," I wavered a forbidding hand. "When my complexion and my disposition had been soothed and comforted."

"What I wanted to tell you was that I'd be home to dinner," he called after me. "And I thought it best to notify you that you might have time to forestall any of the tame cats who usually occupy your evenings."

I did not deign to reply to that shaft, but went about my preparations for dinner.

So glad you could come, "I murmured formally after the manner of a hostess greeting a guest, when I returned to Paul in the library. "Really the presence of a husband is so upsetting to one's plans."

I dare say you've occupied the last half hour sending frantic wireless messages to your sundry admirers warning them that the ogre is home tonight," said Paul as we went down to dinner.

"Can you blame me? People I've just met are beginning to say to me, 'Why, Mrs. Tindall, are you married?' And I reply, 'Occasionally.'"

Paul laughed and then grew sober. "Seriously, Nell, would you like to play the game according to rules? How about taking a house out of town and making a real home?"

I was thoroughly alarmed. No such desire would ever enter my heart, I felt assured. But it was one thing to feel so, and quite another to have Paul guess my distaste. A frivolous wife is only a success with her husband when he feels that she plays her game unwillingly. As long as she remains the injured spouse, through chance or circumstance or necessity—she commands his respect, protection and condonement. Put a man in the wrong and he is the softest of creatures.

"I'm afraid I'd be too lonely, Paul. I never played platonically. 'You'd just never get home at all if we were out in the country. Under our present arrangement, you can run uptown in a few minutes whenever you get an unexpected leisure hour.'"

"Do you really feel that way about it?" he asked, looking pleased. "Tell me you'd rather have me around than the others of your gay crowd."

I simply looked at him, and before the quickened tenderness in his eyes, I felt a slight pang as I recalled that I had thrown the same expression into the look I had given Bob Calloway that morning.

Paul gave my hand a light squeeze under cover of the table. "You're so adorable when you look at me like that, I haven't the heart to scold you."

"What have I done now?" I cried with mock alarm. "Some of your carryings-on have reached my ears, miladi, and you should be sternly rebuked by me, but all my brave resolutions melt away before your presence. Why hello there," he broke off suddenly springing up and looking past me. "How do you do, Mrs. Lamar."

I turned to find the Franklin Lamars being deftly seated at the adjoining table by our efficient Pierre. They were accompanied by John Manning and their ubiquitous sister-in-law, who, anyone could plainly see, was keen about Manning, and stanchly backed by Mrs. Lamar.

I felt the chill wind of premonition and I was not to be disappointed.

"What a pleasure to see you again, Mrs. Tindall," said Mrs. Lamar, in her level voice, leaning forward. "I've positively not met you since the day we ran across you and that delightful Captain Frazier at the Wistaria Inn."

NOT ABLE TO WORK IN PAST TWO YEARS

Delaware Co., Ohio, Man Now Praising the Great Remedy

Indigestion, Gas, Constipation, Liver Trouble, and Complications Had Him Down and Out, He Says

"I've been down and out and not able to work for the past two years, but it's different now," said Mr. Williams Hughes, the well known farmer residing at Galena, Delaware Co., Ohio.

"I had indigestion the worst kind, suffered after each meal from gas-tritis. My bowels were bound up and my liver very sluggish, often giving me headaches and dizzy spells. My appetite fell off to nothing, and I could not sleep sound. I've now taken two bottles of Drego, and my improvement is remarkable; I'm feeling fine once more. My bowels act regularly; the dizzy spells passed away, have a huge appetite, everything I eat seems to agree with me. My strength has returned; in fact I'm feeling better than I have in many months, and I give the credit to Drego."

Many people suffering from a deranged stomach, liver, kidney, or intestinal trouble, have different symptoms. In fact any one of the following may designate these complaints, constipation, sick headache, heartburn, costiveness, no benefit from sleep, tired feeling, coated tongue, dark circles under the eyes, indigestion or dyspepsia.

Drego, the new herbal stomach remedy, attacks and destroys all poisons in the blood, corrects diseased conditions of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, and restores them to normal condition, thereby forcing them to perform their natural functions.

Mr. Stout, the well known Drego expert, has headquarters at Baldwin's Central Drug Store, to meet the local public and explain the merits of this great remedy. See him today.

TODAY—"Far From the Madding Crowd," by Thomas Hardy.
MONDAY—"The Deemster" by Hall Caine.

HARDY II.

Thomas Hardy, probably the most searching and profound novelist of our own time, was born June 2, 1840, in Dorsetshire, England. In his youth he read much and cherished the dream of becoming a poet but he studied and practiced architecture as assistant to a London architect, winning a prize for design. The fine proportion and solidity of structure in his novels were probably somewhat due to his architectural training.

For five years he assiduously practiced writing poetry, but when he was 27, he turned definitely to fiction. His first story was accepted two years later, but upon the advice of George Meredith, he decided not to publish it. His first novel, "Desperate Remedies," appeared in 1871.

During the next 25 years, he published 14 novels and two volumes of short stories.

"Under the Greenwood Tree" (1872), he "never surpassed in happy and delicate perfection of art." In the next novel, "A Pair of Blue Eyes" (1873), begins to show itself that strain of deep irony which is so potent throughout Hardy's writings.

"Far from the Madding Crowd" (1874) was his first popular success. In it is revealed Hardy's superb power of depicting nature as symbolic background, for his characters, an organic part of the action of his story. This was the earliest of what he called his novels of character and environment, which included "The Return of the Native," "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," his masterpiece, and "Jude the Obscure." Not until he was 58 years old was his first volume of verse published and he was 64 when the first part of his stupendous epic poem, "The Dynasts," startled the literary world.

strange ways of fate that had brought her nearer to him than when her heart was free.

Tragedy came when Fanny Robin crept home to die. Her body with that of her child was brought back to the house where she had worked. Standing by the coffin, Bathsheba learned that Troy had never loved her as he had this girl who had borne death and shame for him. He fled from Weatherbury and word was brought to Bathsheba that he had been swept out to sea and drowned.

The seasons rolled on and sorrow gave to Bathsheba's face a seriousness that added to her charm. Boldwood dreamed again and he was made happy by a promise, although six years must pass before its fulfillment.

To celebrate his joy, he planned a Christmas eve party, more than a year after Troy had disappeared. And it was on this night that Troy chose to reappear, striding like a spectre among the merry-makers. As he advanced upon her, Bathsheba stood like a stricken thing, half-convinced that delusion had enthralled her. But there was nothing ghostly in the rough command that he shouted at her, nor in the brutal grip that he took upon her arm. Then only did she stir, but she could not speak. A strangled scream was heard, then a deafening roar. Some eyes were upon Troy, pithing forward and never to rise again; others upon Boldwood standing with a smoking gun in his hands.

Not until the next August, long after it was known that Boldwood was to be imprisoned for life, was Bathsheba able to walk as far as the village street. Fate had been hard to her. Of three men who had loved her, one had been killed by another who would never stride in the daylight again. And now word had come to her that Gabriel—best, sturdy Gabriel—whom she had found the one man in the world who did not fail her in her need, was leaving her. She sought him in his humble cottage and he confessed that he was going because people were coupling his name with hers. "Such a thing as that is too absurd—too soon—to think of, by far!" she cried. When he agreed with her that it was "too absurd," she insisted that she had not said that, but "too soon." Even then minutes ticked away before Gabriel could realize that what he had so long sought was to be his.

Their lives, in calm and storm, had been so close that after the wedding the rustic marvelled at his easy way of speaking of "my wife." They agreed that he did not say the words as chillingly as might a man who had been married twenty years, but that improvement would come later. Gabriel laughed aloud at that and Bathsheba smiled, for Bathsheba did not now laugh so readily as had been her wont when first she came among the simple folk of changeless Weatherbury.

ANNUAL CONVENTION

The 32nd Annual Convention of the Allen County W. C. T. U. association convened Friday at the Congregational church. There was an especially large attendance of delegates from the various unions of the county.

Mrs. D. R. Cook, the county president, after the singing of "America" led in prayer. Mrs. Dora Fisher extended greetings and Mrs. Roberts, of Gomer, responded. Reports were read and showed a great increase in number. The Florence Richards Union, of Lima, doubling their membership.

Over $200 was reported in the Jubilee fund. Mrs. Durbin explained that the reported "Campaign Against Tobacco" was only another deception of the part of the non-prohibitionists to sway public opinion against the W. C. T. U. The W. C. T. U. is not in the campaign in any way, except to teach scientific temperance in the schools and they have been in the educational campaign against tobacco for thirty years.

There was the noonday prayer, so necessary to growth and strength which was led by Mrs. E. A. Reed. The afternoon session opened with devotionals by the county president. The Francis Willard sang "When My Soul Reaches Home." Mrs. Augusta Steiner prayed very effectively. The superintendent of the different departments gave reports for the past year, which were splendid. Mrs. Ruck sang, "That's What God Made Mothers For."

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. D. R. Cook, president; Mrs. L. R. Rogers, vice president; Mrs. F. H. Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Hickerson, recording secretary; Mrs. Archer, treasurer.

Mrs. Winona Vinson Forrer gave a splendid talk all the more interesting. Mrs. William Wilson spoke of the Y. W. work, in which she is so vitally interested.

Your Grocer Said

"That man's trade is welcome at my store; he usually pays cash but his credit is good; I know he will pay every dollar, because he saves; he showed me his pass book, proving how regularly he has deposited his money in the Allen County Savings and Loan Company, and the interest credited every January and July; I wish all my customers were savers."

Did your grocer say that of you? Your grocer will not know how much you have saved nor where you have your money unless you tell him, but he can make a good guess whether you have saved some way; he can tell by your manner.

tral Church of Christ will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Figlin, of Richie avenue, Friday afternoon at 2:30.

DINNER-DANCE.

An especially attractive party was that of Friday evening, tendered to two popular brides-elect, and their fiancés, Miss Mary Dumeid, Miss Fannie Hughes, Howard Horn and Charles Hovel. It was a parting compliment from the Girls Embroidery club to these much loved and popular members who will be brides of the very near future. A dinner-dance was the form of entertainment taken as a means of honoring them and was given at the Country club. Guests at the dinner, 22 in number were seated at one long table which was replete with the light and beauty of artistic decorations. There was in the center of the long table a large ivory basket filled to over flowing with asters, gold and purple, the colors of the club. Attached and there were smaller baskets, exact replicas of the centerpiece. Yellow candles tied with purple tulle furnished light during the dinner.

Francis Durbin presided as toastmaster, and everyone was called upon in turn, those of the honor guests being especially eloquent.

Covers were laid at the dinner for the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stoneburner, Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Frances Durbin, Dr. and Mrs. V. H. Hay, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Apples, Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Satter, Mr. and Mrs. Tammie Maple, of Columbus Grove, Mr. Lattimer, Miss Helen Bower, Miss Edith Simpson, Miss Evelyn Davison, Miss Lenna Rudy.

At 9 o'clock guests arrived for the dance. Each couple had invited as their guests one other couple, to enjoy the evening of dancing. Punch and sandwiches were served to the guests during the evening.

Yes, But What Did He Ever Do?

This Speaker says he cannot see where Cincinnati has a chance to beat the White Sox in the world series.

"The Chicago club" says the great center fielder, "is a powerful, well-balanced, smooth running machine, strong in all departments of the game, a brain lot of players who will make few, if any, mistakes."

"Some people believe that Cincinnati carries more guns on the pitching line and will have something on the White Sox in this respect."

"I believe that in a series of nine games, if it should go to such lengths Cincinatti can win three and possibly four. But if Chicago should get away to a good start by, for instance, winning the first two games, I should not be surprised to see Gleason use Kerr and James in addition to Cicotte and Williams. I think that Cicotte will win every game he pitches."

U. S. Doughboys - Honest, He Says

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The American doughboy is honest and, judging from a check on how he borrowed and paid, has it on the average charge account bend in every way. Commandant and Mrs. J. M. Hale of the Salvation Army have reached this conscientious conclusion after twelve months' work in France during which time they loaned the boys of one artillery outfit 20,000 francs.

A statement prepared by the Salvation workers tells the story: Borrowers, boys of the 121st artillery.

Number of borrowers, 203. Amount repaid, 19,960 francs. Average loan, 99 francs. Largest loan, 500 francs. Amount repaid 19,960 francs. Bad accounts, two. Loss, forty francs.

"Some of the boys we were with were chronically broke," explained the commandant, "They were steady borrowers, but they always paid their debts."

"The lads would come and say to my wife or me: 'Ma (or if I was there, 'Dad), I'm strapped. Need a hundred francs. Here's my I. O. U. When the ghost walked they would come to us the first thing and take up their paper, as they called their I. O. U's."

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES

Thrills that stir the soul are plentiful in "Secret Service," William Gillette's famous drama, a Paramount-Artcraft special picture which comes to the Faurot next Sunday. Major Robert Warwick, who has doffed the khaki and temporarily wears the blue of the Federal and the button of the Confederate service in this picture plays the role made famous by Mr. Gillette.

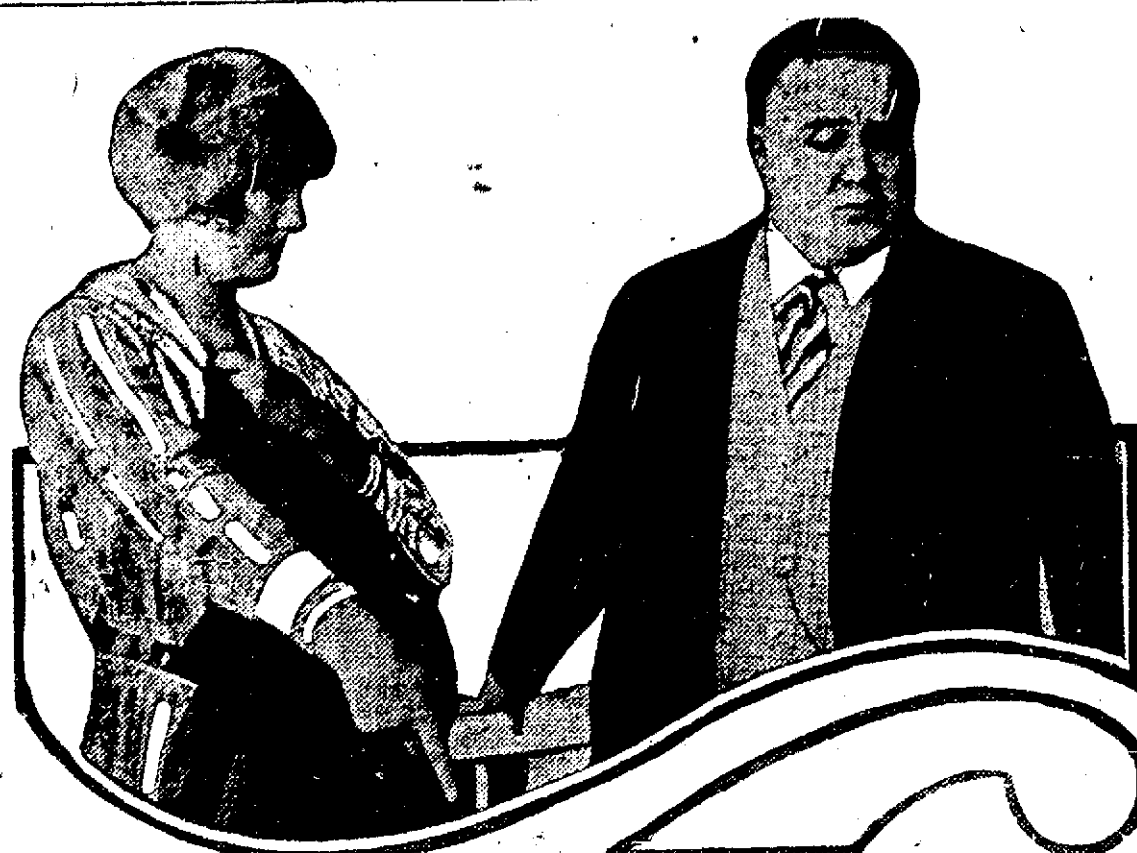

Caught in a desperate situation, in his efforts to betray Richmond into the hands of the Union Army, the hero is saved by a Southern Girl who has learned to love him. This is not, however, a war play with shot and shell flying thickly; but a tense human story of a few people involved in a network as the result of secret service in its most dramatic sense.

In the supporting cast are found many favorites, Wanda Hawley, beautiful and talented, is Edith Varner the heroine, playing opposite Major Robert Warwick. Others in the cast are Theodore Roberts, Raymond Hatton, Irving Cummings, Casson Ferguson, Edythe Chapman, and Guy Oliver.

"Secret Service" is accompanied by the Pathe News, Bray Cartoons, Paramount Pictographs and the Screen Monologue.

Lila Lee, diminutive Paramount star, has an entirely different role from that of her preceding pictures in her latest picture "Rustling a Bride" which will be displayed at the Faurot.

In this, her latest production, Miss Lee portrays the role of a little girl of the West—a typical outdoor girl who is as much at home in a saddle the Faurot for two days commencing Thursday next.

It is the story of how a clever young girl, who had learned to know life because of her experiences as a traveling saleswoman, undertakes to cure her erstwhile lover of pleasure madness that has estranged him from her.

To do this, she enlists his aged strong cast. It includes Donald MacLean, Edwin Stevens, Frank Leigh, Mollie McConnell, Beverly Travis and Nora Johnson.

Bruce scenics, the Topical Digest and an intimate view of the movie players on the West coast will also be shown.

FAUROT — NEIL O'BRIEN'S MINSTRELS

Minstrel lovers will welcome the announcement of the engagement of the Neil O'Brien Minstrels at the Faurot next Saturday.

On which occasion this well known company will appear on its eighth annual tour, bringing what is claimed to be the largest and most elaborately equipped production ever offered by this organization. A first part brimful of new jokes and comedy songs by the highest class comedians, new ballads by America's best minstrel soloists and the Neil O'Brien concert orchestra, composed of 20 musicians go to make up the first hours entertainment. The second part of the show will consist of a song and dance, in which the scene is a representation of the old time Southern home and a comedy story is told in old and new songs. Bert Swor, will have a new monologue and songs. An act written by Neil O'Brien entitled "The Potato Peeler" and a playlet called "The League of Explorations," go to make up an evening of promised merriment.

RIALTO THEATRE

The greatest drama of all dramas revealing the cause and effect of the third side of the eternal triangle and exposing the extremes which a wife and mother can go when the social-mad crowds and the gaiety of the cafes are permitted to come between her and the home, will be seen at the Rialto theatre, commencing Tuesday night when "The Other Man's Wife," a screen version of one of the most convincing stories of domestic disturbances ever written, is shown for the first time in this city. The management of the Rialto theatre has gone to unusual expense to obtain this production and it is hoped that every man, woman and child of this city will take advantage of this opportunity and attend one of the performances. There's a lesson taught that all should learn. We are all looking for happiness. This tells you how to find it. At the Rialto starting Tuesday.

THOMPSON'S FINE RURAL PLAY HELD STAGE THIRTY YEARS

Remarkable Success Achieved by "The Old Homestead," Now Picturized.

When Denman Thompson wrote "The Old Homestead" 40 years ago, he little dreamed of the prodigious success it would achieve. The famous play held the stage continuously for more than thirty years and more than twenty millions of Americans saw it at one time or another.

This famous play has been picturized by Paramount and it will be shown at the Faurot today only. It is an admirable photoplay and one that will live long in the memory of all who see it.

"The Old Homestead" is a rich—and therefore rare—combination of good old-fashioned rural comedy and the deepest pathos. Opening in the peaceful farm country far from the glare and blare of Broadway, the story takes the innocent son from his happy abode and flings him into the maelstrom of New York's life. Here he falls victim to the lure of the new existence and nearly breaks the heart of his grieving family.

But his simple old father, putting all his trust and faith in the power of good over evil, goes to the city in search of his son, confident that he will be guided to him by a Higher Intelligence. The dramatic force of the scenes which follow are founded upon the most effective of all appeals—heart interest.

Frank Loser, who is well known all over the United States for his marvelous character acting, plays Josh Whitcomb, the role made memorable by Denman Thompson. Others in the cast include Creighton Hale, Denman Moley, Louise Huff and Mrs. Corbett.

DOUBLE BILL

FRANK KEENAN IN HIS GREATEST DRAMATIZATION

"THE PHANTOM"

ORPHEUM

The Orpheum tomorrow, as an extraordinary attraction to the big array of vaudeville acts will show that great photoplay "The Other Half" in 5-reels. They don't make them much better and stranger than this picture.

Because some have eyes and can not see, is the reason "The Other Half"—the less fortunate of humankind—must toil and sweat under unjust conditions. "No sentiment in business" was the maxim Donald Trent had inherited from his millionaire father, and the pursuit of money made him blind to the conditions of his employees. "The Jazz Kid" synopsized "Sweet Cookie Mine" while she toiled in the hot laundry and did her bit in spreading sunshine. Katherine, the blue-blooded heiress, saw the light and spread good cheer in her "Ray O'Hop" newspaper. Jimmie Main's physical sight was restored when he realized the truth and Donald's spiritual vision was cleared by an appreciation that "the brotherhood of man" was the solution of labor injustices and unrest.

For this week of Sept. 22, the first half of the bill will be head-lined with "Flirtation" a satire on college life sprinkled with music and songs.

"Toplining the bill the last half is "The Telephone Tangle." A comedy novelty, that occurs every day with more laughs than anything seen here in many a day. Four other Keith features will appear on each half of the week in fact two bang-up good shows.

REGENT THEATRE TO SHOW BIG FAIRBANKS FILM

It is doubtful if any motion picture was ever awaited with as much interest and anticipation in Lima as Douglas Fairbanks' new picture "His Majesty, The American," which will be the attraction at the Regent Theatre, beginning Wednesday.

Something more than mere interest in a motion picture lies back of this anticipation, for "His Majesty, the American," is Douglas Fairbanks' first independent production and marks the first release of United Artists Corporation, the so-called "Big Four."

In January of 1919 the entire amusement world was startled by the formation of the United Artists Association. This association was formed by Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith. These artists, conceded throughout the world to be the screen's foremost producers, after having released their pictures for a number of years through various distributing companies decided that to assure their best work and in order to have full independence for the highest expression of their art, they would, upon the completion of their then-existing contracts, release their own pictures, direct to the theatres of the country.

This move for independence by

They will make fewer pictures than they have made before, and this in itself will be an advantage. Heretofore they have been obliged to turn out a certain number of productions within a given period and consequently have not always had the time to perfect their work.

Thus, under the leadership of the screen's foremost artists is the perfection of motion picture entertainment in sight.

The first picture made under these ideal conditions as "His Majesty, the American" The management of the Regent Theatre feels great pride in having secured this production for its city. The Regent the foremost artists of the screen is the most important and beneficial step that has been taken in the motion picture business since it assumed its leadership in the amusement field.

It means for the motion picture patrons that Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith will hereafter be enabled to produce pictures in their own way.

Theatre has always endeavored to choose its attractions with discrimination and regardless of expense. In the case of "His Majesty, the American," knowing what a Douglas Fairbanks film will be when the inimitable "Doug" can put his best into it, the theatre management feels and justly so, that it will offer to its patrons beginning Sunday, what should prove to be the very height of screen entertainment.

XIII---MORE FIGHTS, MORE VICTORIES

LIEUTENANT WILBUR WHITE'S HEROIC HEAD-ON COLLISION
WITH A FOKKER. AND HAM COOLIDGE'S TRAGIC DEATH

ON the afternoon of October 10 the 94th Squadron received orders to destroy two very bothersome enemy balloons, one of which was located at Dun-sur-Meuse, the other at Almerville. The time for this attack was fixed for us at 3:50 P. M. sharp. A formation of defending planes from 147 Squadron was directed to cover our left wing while a similar formation from the 27th was given the same position on our right. I was placed in command of the expedition and was to arrange all minor details.

Selecting Lieutenants Coolidge and Chambers to act as the balloon executioners, I sent orders to all the pilots who were to accompany our secret raid to assemble their formation at 3,000 feet above Montfaucon at 3:40 o'clock precisely. Then with Coolidge and Chambers ahead of us, the united force would proceed to the Dun balloon, where we would protect the two strainers against Hun aeroplanes while they went in to attack their objective. Then, after destroying the first, if circumstances permitted, we should proceed on to Almerville, destroy that balloon and beat a retreat straight for home. If Coolidge and Chambers encountered any hostile aircraft they were instructed to avoid fighting, but to fire immediately to the protection of our formation.

A clear afternoon made it certain that the Boche machines would be thick about us. According to our Secret Intelligence reports the enemy had here concentrated the heaviest air force against the Americans that had ever been gathered together since the war began. Both the Huthofen Circus and the Lesser Circus were now opposed to us, and we had almost daily seen the well-known red noses of the one and the yellow-bellied finches of the other. Also we had distinguished the Checker-Board design of the No. 3 Jagdstaffel and the new scout machines which the Huns had but lately sent to the front, the Siemens-Schuckert, which was driven by a four-bladed propeller and which had a much faster climb than had the Spad. Finally reports which came to us stated that the new Fokker was now arriving at the front. Had four instead of two guns mounted forward, two of one fastened along the engine top and two others attached to the top wing. Personally I have never seen one of these "Roman Candle" airplanes which so startled several pilots who reported having fights with them. They may have been in use along our front, of course, but I have never met one nor seen a pilot who was certain that he had met one. It was told that when all our guns began firing from their balloons at an enemy machine, the exhibition resembled the setting off of Fourth of July bombs. Thunderous continuous streams of tracer bullets issued from the noses of the four machine guns.

This heavy concentration of enemy aircraft along our front was necessary to the Germans for two reasons. The retreating Hun infantry must hold the Meuse front until they had time to withdraw their troops from Belgium and the north of the latter would be cut off, recently, the allied bombing squadrons which were now terrifying the Rhine towns were all located along this front and must be prevented from destroying their Prussian cities as done to the heart of the Hun. General Trenchard of the British Independent Air Force proved he was right when he demonstrated that his bombing of enemy cities would necessarily withdraw from the battle front much of the enemy's air strength to defend those helpless cities against such attacks.

So it is not necessarily to be believed that Germany was actually in such fright over the appearance of the American airman that she stationed out all her best aviators to meet in the Verdun region to oppose us, she really had quite other objects in view. But such a move nevertheless resulted in filling the skies crowded as with the best fighting airmen in the German service. It promised to be a busy month for us.

We Start Out Fourteen Strong.

Fourteen of my Spads left the ground on October 10 at 3:30 in the afternoon, with eight of 147's machines and seven of those from 27 Squadron taking their places on the right and left of us as arranged. I pushed my Spad No. 1 up several thousand feet above the flots to watch their progress over the Hun from a superior altitude. The enormous formation below me resembled a huge crawling beetle. Coolidge and Chambers flying in exact position ahead of them to form the stingers. Thus arranged we proceeded swiftly north-west in the direction of Dun-sur-Meuse. We arrived over the lines, to be welcomed by an outlandish exhibition of Archy's fury, but despite the large target we made no damage was received and none of our Spads turned back. Reaching a quieter region inside German territory I looked about me. There indeed was our Hun balloon floating tranquilly in the sunshine. It was 3:40 by my watch. We had ten minutes to maneuver for position and reach our objective. I looked down at my convoy and found that 147's Formation at the left had separated themselves somewhat widely from the others. Then studying the distant horizon I detected a number of specks in the sky, which soon resolved themselves into a formation of fifteen Fokkers flying in loose, full formation and evidently just risen from their aerodrome at Stenay, a dozen miles beyond Dun. They were approaching from the west and must reach the detached formation of 147's pilots before the rest of my flight could reach them, unless they immediately closed up. I dived down to dip

On my way down I glanced around me and saw approaching us from Metz in quite the opposite direction another formation of eight Fokkers. Certainly the Huns had wonderful methods of information which enabled them to bring to a threatened point this speedy relief. While I debated an instant as to which danger was the most pressing I looked down below and discovered that the enemy balloon men were already engaged in pulling down their observation balloon, which was the object of our attack back of Dun-sur-Meuse. So they suspected the purpose of our little expedition! It lacked a minute or two of the time set for our dash at the balloon and as I viewed the situation it would not be wise for Coolidge and Chambers to take their departure from our formation until we had disposed of the advancing Fokkers from the west. Accordingly I kept my altitude and set my machine toward the rear of the Stenay Fokkers, which I observed were the red noses of the von Huthofen Circus. They were heading in at the 117 formation which was still separated almost a mile away from our other troops. Lieutenant Wilbur White of New York was leading No. 147's pilots. He would have to bear the brunt of the Fokker attack.

I Watch a German Parachute.

Evidently the Fokker leader scorned to take notice of me, as his scouts passed under me and plunged ahead toward White's formation. I let them pass, slipped over sharply and with accumulated speed bore down upon the rear of the last man in the Fokker line. I was sorely surprised, however, to see that my first shot had set fire to the Hun's fuel tank and that the machine was doomed. I was almost sadly gratified the next second to see the German pilot level off his blazing machine and with a sudden leap overboard into space let the Fokker slide safely away from him. Attached to his back and sides was a rope which he used to pull a donkey parachute from the bottom of his seat. The umbrella opened within a fifty-foot drop and settled him gradually to earth within his own lines.

Below, Rick with a Spad Machine.

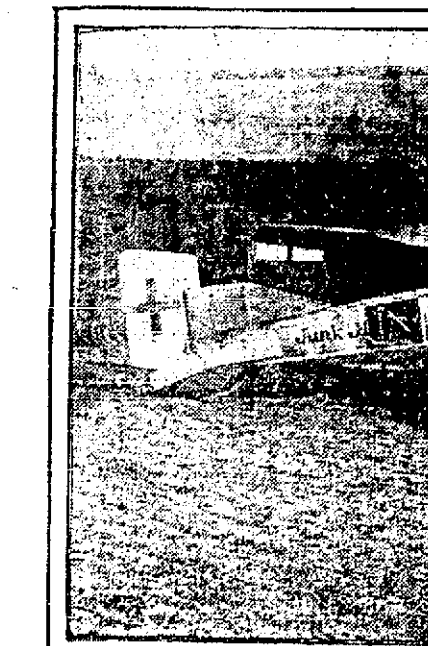

For sheer nerve and bravery I believe this heroic feat was never surpassed. No national honor too great could compensate the family of Lieutenant White for this sacrifice for his country and his unparalled example of heroism to his Squadron. For the most pitiable feature of Lieutenant White's self-sacrifice was the fact that this was his last flight over the lines before he was to leave for the United States on a visit to his wife and two small children. Not many pilots enter the service with loved ones so close to them!

This extraordinary disaster ended the day's fighting for the Hun airmen. No doubt they valued their own leader as much as we did Lieutenant White, or perhaps they got a severe attack of in all my life at the front I have never seen equalled in horror and awfulness. The picture of it has haunted my dreams during many nights since. Upon seeing that my man was hit I had immediately turned up to retain my superiority in height over the other Huns. Now as I came about and saw the German pilot leap overboard with his parachute I saw that a general fight was on between the remaining ten Fokkers and the eight Spads of 147 Squadron. The Fokker leader had taken on the rear Spad in White's formation when White turned and saw him coming. Like a flash White zoomed up into a half turn, executed a reversement and came back at the Hun leader to protect his pilot from certain death. White was one of the finest pilots and best air fighters in our group. He had won seven victories in combat. His pilots loved him and considered him a "wind-up" at witnessing the new method of American attack. At any rate they withdrew and we immediately turned our attention to the fight which was now in progress between the Spads of 27 Squadron at our right and the Hun formation from Metz. It looked like a furious dog-fight.

A German trench straffing plane.

great leader, which he most assuredly was. White's maneuver occupied but an instant. He came out of his swoop and made a direct plunge for the enemy machine, which was just getting in line on the rear Spad's tail. Without firing a shot the heroic White rammed the Fokker head-on while the two machines were approaching each other at the rate of 250 miles per hour!

White, a Good Pilot, Dies.

It was a horrible yet thrilling sight. The two machines actually telescoped each other, as violent was the impact. Wings went through wings and at first glance both the Fokker and Spad seemed to disintegrate. Fragments filled the air for a moment, then the two broken fuselages, bound together by the terrific collision fell swiftly down and landed in one heap on a bank of the Meuse!

Below, Rick with a Spad Machine.

lool. In the meantime other things were happening so rapidly that I had little opportunity to look about me. For even as I started down to help this balloon straffer I saw another Spad passing me with two Fokkers on his tail, filling his fuselage with tracer bullets as the procession went by. A first glance had identified the occupant of the Spad as my old protégé—the famous Jimmy Meissner! For the third time since we had been flying together Providence had sent me along just in the nick of time to get Jimmy out of trouble. Twice before on the old Niports Jimmie had torn his wings in too sudden a slip and his unscrupulous antagonists had been about to murder him as he wobbled along, when I happened by. Now, after a interlude, Jimmy comes sailing by again, smiling and good-natured as ever, with two ugly bruises on his tail trying their best to excite him. I quickly tacked onto the procession, settling my sights into the rear machine and letting go a long burst as I came within range. The Hun fell off and dropped down out of control, the other Fokker immediately pulling away and diving steeply for home and safety. Two other Fokkers fell in that dog-fight, neither of which I happened to see. Both Coolidge and Chambers, though they had been cheated of their balloon, brought down a Fokker apiece, which victories were later confirmed. The Spad which had dropped down into German hands after being set afire by the flaming onions belonged to Lieutenant Brotherhood, like White and Meissner, a member of the 147th Squadron.

Four more victories were thus added to 84's score by this afternoon's work. We did not get the balloons but we had done the best we could. I was never in favor of attacking observation balloons in full daylight, and this day's experience—the aroused suspicions of my bullets until it was too late. He ran straight through my line of fire and he left it with a gush of flame issuing from his fuel tank. I fully believe that several bullets passed through the pilot's body as well.

Considerably backed up with this success I did not seize this opportunity to escape, but executed blindly a sudden swoop and reversal, under the strongest impression that my two enemies above would certainly be close onto my tail and preparing to shoot. Again I had guessed correctly, for not only were they in just the position I expected to find them and just where I myself would have been were I in their place, but they were also started out of the senses over my sudden and unexpected assault upon their comrade. It is never an encouraging sight to see a comrade's machine falling in flames. It is sufficient to make the stoutest heart quail unless one is hemmed in and is fighting for his very life. But however that may be, my three neighbors did not turn to continue the combat with me, for they saw I was in a position to threaten my pursuit. All three continued their heading dive for Germany with a faster and heavier Spad machine following them and gaining on them every second. My blood was up and I considered that I had been badly treated by the red-nosed Boches. I was three miles inside their lines, other enemy machines might very easily be about—I had no time to look about to see—and I had just escaped from the very worst trap into which I had ever fallen. Yet I could not resist the mad impulse of paying back the three Huns for the scare they had so recently given me.

Though the Spad is faster than the Fokker, the fleeing Huns had a slight start over me and I did not immediately overtake them. One of the three gradually was getting nearer and nearer and it was growing very much darker as we approached the earth's surface. At about 1,000 feet above ground I decided the nearest Fokker was within my range. I opened fire following his gyrations as he maneuvered to avoid my ever-nearing stream of lead. After letting go at him some 200 bullets, his machine dropped out of control and I ceased firing. His two companions had never slackened their pace and were now well out of sight in the shadows. I watched my latest antagonist flutter down and finally crash, and then awoke to the fact that I was being fired at by hundreds of guns from the ground. The gunners and I had no time to answer to me that I could distinctly see their guns pointed in my direction. I had dropped down to within a few hundred yards of earth.

All the way back to the lines I was followed by machine-gun bullets and some Archy. Absolutely untouched I continued on to my field, where I put in my claim for two enemy Fokkers and after seeing to the wounds of my faithful Spad, walked over to the 34 mess for supper.

On Sunday, October 27th, only a fortnight before the end of the war, Hamilton Coolidge, one of the best pilots and most respected men in the American Air Service, met an annihilating death from a direct hit by an Archy shell in full flight. The shell had not burst just when it struck the Spad in which Coolidge was sitting. The aeroplane was moving forward at its usual fast speed when the mounting shell, probably traveling at the speed of 3,000 feet per second, struck squarely under the center of the aeroplane's engine. Poor Coolidge must have been killed instantly. The Spad flew into fragments and the unfortunate pilot dropped like a stone to the ground.

Coolidge was one of the top score-keepers of 94 Squadron and one of the most popular men in the service. A graduate of Groton and later of Harvard, he possessed all the qualifications of leadership and a brilliant career in any profession he might have chosen to adopt. In his work at the front he never shirked and never complained. The loss of Lieutenant Hamilton Coolidge was one of the severest that we had been called upon to suffer.

It was beginning to be a matter of constant conjecture among us as to just what Germany would cave in and surrender. The collapse of Austria and the constant and obvious weakening of the Hun troops opposite our sector were well known to us. Hence it seemed doubly bitter that Ham Coolidge should meet death now, just as the end of the war was at hand. Especially tragic was it to all of us who knew Coolidge's fighting ability that he should be the one aviator who should meet his end in this incredible manner. More than one pilot bitterly remarked that no German aviator could down Ham Coolidge, so they had to kill him by a miracle.

And miracle it was, for no other American pilot, and but one or two other aviators during the whole course of the war were shot down from on high by an Archy in full flight. The shell had Hamilton's name written on it and there was no escape!

Coolidge, with his usual intrepidity, was hurrying in to the assistance of a formation of American bombing machines which, after dropping their eggs on the enemy town of Grand Pre, as they started home, were in turn attacked by a large number of swifter flying Fokker machines. The Archy shells were directed at the bombers and not at the Spad of Ham Coolidge! After having scornfully passed through hundreds of barrages which were aimed at him, our unlucky ace had collided with a shell not at all intended for him!

Although I did not see this ghastly accident to poor Coolidge, I was in the midst of the same barrage of Archy on the other side of Grand Pre at the same time.

the observers, the pulling down of the balloon as strong aeroplane assistance at the same time arrived, and the fate of Lieutenant Brotherhood, who tried unsuccessfully to pass through the defensive barrage—is a fair illustration, I believe, of the difficulties attending such daylight straffings. Just at dawn or just at dusk is the ideal time for surpressing the Drachen.

I Look for Trouble.

The following afternoon I escaped assassination by four red-nosed Fokkers by the narrowest margin ever vouchsafed to a pilot, and at the end of the combat flew safely home with my 21st and 22nd victories to my credit. Curiously enough I had gone out over the lines alone that day with a craving desire to get a thrill. I had become "fed-up" with a continuation of eventless flights. Saving nothing to any of my fellows at the aerodrome I went off alone with an idea of shooting down a balloon that I thought might be hanging just north of Montfaucon. While I did not get a shot at the balloon I got all the thrill I needed for several days to come.

It was about five-thirty in the afternoon when I ordered out my machine and set off for Montfaucon. As I neared the Meuse valley I found the whole vicinity was covered with a thick haze—so thick in fact that the Germans had hauled down all their observation balloons. There was nothing a mile away that could be observed until another day dawned. Over to the south the sky was clearer. Our own balloons were still up. But no enemy aeroplanes would be likely to come over our front again so late in the evening.

While I was reflecting thus sadly a bright blaze struck my eye from the direction of our nearest balloon. I headed around toward this spot in the shortest possible space of time. There mind as I almost automatically zoomed up and did a climbing chauché to escape the tracer bullets directed at me. I did not even stop to look at the position of my assailants. Knowing they were above, I concluded instantly that they had prepared for my diving away from them and that therefore that would be the best thing for me to avoid. I fortunately had reasoned correctly. As I sped upwards two red-nosed Fokkers, my old friends of the von Richtenhofen Circus, sped down and passed me. But even before I had time enough to congratulate myself upon my sagacity I discovered that only half of them had passed me. Two more Fokkers had remained above on the chance that I might refuse to adopt the plan they had determined upon for me.

And I Find It.

One glimpse of the skilful contortions of these two upper Fokkers showed me that I was in for the fight of my life. I lost all interest in the progress or existence of the balloon straffer that had destroyed one of our balloons under my very nose. My one dearest desire was to get away off by myself, where thrills were never mentioned and were quite impossible to get. The mastery way in which the Fokkers met and even anticipated every movement I made assured me that I had four very experienced pilots with whom to deal. Zig-zagging and side-slipping helped me not one whit and I felt that I was getting a wind-up that would only sap my coolness and soon make me the easy prey of these four extremely confident Huns. The two machines that had first attacked me impatiently remained below me in such a position that they invited my attack, while also preventing my escape in their direction. I made up my mind to start something before it was too late. Even though it meant getting into trouble, I decided that would be better than waiting around for them to operate upon me as they had no doubt been practising in so many rehearsals. Noting a favorable opening for an attack on the nearest man below me I suddenly tipped over at him and went hurtling down with all my speed, shooting from both guns.

I had aimed ahead of him instead of directly at him to compel him either to pass ahead through the path of my bullets or else dip down in his nose or fall over onto his wing—in either case providing me with a fair target before he could get away. He either preferred the former course or else did not see

While I was reflecting thus sadly a bright blaze struck my eye from the direction of our nearest balloon. I headed around toward this spot in the shortest possible space of time. There could be but one explanation for such a blaze. The flying Hun must have just crossed the lines and had made a successful attack upon our balloon over Exerment! He ought to be an easy victim for me when he tries to cross back into Germany, for I am on his direct road to the nearest point in his lines. He was now coming my way. Though I could not see him, I did see the bursting Archy shells following his course northward. He must pass considerably under me, and no doubt would be quite alone.

Just then a series of zipping streams of fire flashed by my face and through my fuselage and wings! I dived rather than saw what this was without looking around. Two, or perhaps more than two, enemy machines were plying me from above. Utterly absorbed in planning what I should do to catch the other fellows I had been perfectly blind to my own surroundings. The Hun balloon straffer had a protective formation waiting for him. They had seen me come over and had doubtless been stalking me for many minutes without my knowing it.

These thoughts flashed through my mind as I almost automatically zoomed up and did a climbing chauché to escape the tracer bullets directed at me. I did not even stop to look at the position of my assailants. Knowing they were above, I concluded instantly that they had prepared for my diving away from them and that therefore that would be the best thing for me to avoid. A DAY'S WORK: SIX VICTORIES.

THIS OIL COMPANY IS ESTABLISHED

It is not experimental, but one of the large, going concerns well known to producers, refiners, bankers and investment houses, and specializing in fuel oil used in factories, office buildings, on railroads and ocean-going steamships, for heating and manufacturing like many other great American industries at this period, finds it advisable to increase capital to take care of growing business. The Company does not ask investors to participate in an uncertain venture, but to add more capital for the use of a large corporation that is actually producing, buying, transporting and selling fuel oil in great volume. This is an established business, growing to large proportions. Its present status is explained in the following information:

The American Fuel Oil & Transportation Company

Capital

Authorized capital, $30,000,000. $10,000,000 8% participating cumulative preferred stock, $20,000,000 common stock. Issued and outstanding, $2,200,000 preferred, $12,300,000 common.

Organization

The American Fuel Oil and Transportation Company is a merger of the following interests: 1st, Oil Producing interests: THE TRADERS' OIL CORPORATION, owning and operating an old established and going business under an executive staff with a ten years' record of successful and conservative management, with one hundred and seven present producing oil wells, four gas wells, numerous storage tanks, pipe lines, buildings and complete miscellaneous operating equipment, including all the properties formerly owned by The Traders' Oil Co., The Traffic Oil Co., The Euclid Oil Co., The Globe Oil Co., The White Oil Co., The Liberal Oil & Gas Co., and The Starky Oil & Gas Co. 2nd, Marketing and Transportation interests: The JAMES A. MOORE interests controlling through purchase from STANDARD OIL COMPANY a guaranteed supply of 100,000,000 barrels of Fuel Oil.

Properties

The extensive properties include over 30,000 acres owned in fee or under perpetual lease in California, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. They have been carefully selected by able geologists and are grouped for efficient production, marketing and supervision.

Company's wells in Oklahoma are capable of producing 2,000,000 cubic feet of wet gas daily, but are now capped pending the construction of the first casing head gas plant which should be in operation by November of this year.

Over $2,000,000 has been invested in development and equipment alone. These properties offer a wonderful opportunity for further extensive development. The 6,000 acres in Oklahoma, practically surrounded by producing wells, should yield, with additional equipment, $1,000,000 per annum. The Texas property is proven oil land with numerous producing wells immediately adjoining. It is eight miles from Waco, in the well-known South Bosque field, and is on the line between the Beaumont and Burkburnett fields. The 16,500 acres under perpetual lease in Western Kansas have given sufficient assurance of tremendous production. One geologist believes that the company will open up in this district a pool equal to the famous Burkburnett field of Texas.

Marketing and Transportation Interests

In addition to developing its own fields, the company has purchased from STANDARD OIL INTERESTS, One Hundred Million (100,000,000) barrels of fuel oil of standard specifications as to gravity, flashpoint and viscosity. 2,000,000 barrels of this oil are delivered during the year beginning October 1st, 1919, 3,000,000 barrels the year following, and increasing to the fifth year, when 10,000,000 barrels a year are delivered until complete deliveries shall have been made.

To illustrate the scope of the company's present operations, we cite the sale, with ample cash security, on June 2nd, 1919, to a responsible Italian syndicate of 5,000,000 barrels of this oil, with deliveries of 1,000,000 barrels per year for five years, at a profit which within two years should equal 100% on the entire present outstanding preferred stock of the company.

Present Net Earnings and Dividends

Net earnings are more than sufficient to meet in preferred stock dividends, as the California properties alone have net earnings well in excess of $200,000, or nearly twice the amount required to pay 2% quarterly on the outstanding preferred stock. After the preferred receives its 2% quarterly dividends, and after the payment of 1 1/2% quarterly on the common stock, the preferred stock shares pro rata with the common stock in further dividends.

Purpose of This Issue

1st.—To buy or build tank steamers in lieu of chartered vessels for the cheaper transportation and delivery of fuel oil to its customers. 2nd.—To finance the construction of casing-head gas plants in Oklahoma; 3rd.—To complete the purchase of 110 acres of land now under lease on Staten Island, N. Y., having deep water frontage and rail connections, and to construct the necessary storage tanks, pipe lines, docking facilities, etc., for the more economical distribution of the company's fuel oil to its eastern customers. 4th.—To extend the scope of the company's present active drilling operations so as to realize as quickly as possible on the vast development opportunities of its proven oil lands.

Statement

In our opinion the assured net earnings of this company during the year beginning September 1st, 1919, based on present net earnings from its own production and on secured sales already made of oil purchased from Standard Oil interests, will be ample to pay 8% on the preferred stock, 6% on the common stock, and still leave a satisfactory surplus for further dividends. It is with positive knowledge of the company's financial stability and with absolute confidence in additional large profits from the further development of its resources that we recommend the purchase of this security.—THE ANDREW TELLER COMPANY.

An Investment for Business Men

This investment will appeal particularly to those who make a practice of placing their money in going and growing corporations, managed by men successful in their line of business, and having opportunities for large development by reason of the increasing use of their product by the public. The use of fuel oil is growing enormously, and this company, being in the field and having large facilities for producing and buying, is prepared to care for a much larger volume of business.

Stock Offer

We offer $1,000,000 of preferred stock and $1,000,000 of common stock, par value of each, $10.00; two shares (one share each of preferred and common) for $12.50.

ST. MARYS

FISH BLOWN OUT OF WATER BY WIND

ST. MARYS, Sept. 20.—Starting early Friday a southerly gale became noon gained an impetus of 40 miles an hour.

The temperature stayed mild. The gale at times attacked in puffs that cuffed good sized objects and people about.

Fish driven by the wind and waves into the shallows of the north shore became stranded and were picked up by enterprising "fishermen." One man on his bicycle was seen tearing into the wind (though riding on the road) to the lake, where he said he expected to "pick up some nice ones."

After dinner the enterprise of catching fish with the hands was reported going on along the north shore.

Frank Webb, of Center township, Mercer county, Wednesday, was injured by the same horse which about three weeks ago caused his father to have his ear torn off. When the horse became frightened young Webb jumped from the buggy and broke both bones of his left leg below the knee.

A certificate of deposit for one hundred dollars in addition to about $12 in money were either stolen from or lost by John W. Frey while attending the fair at Wapakoneta.

All members are asked to be present Tuesday night, a surprise for all that come. By Order of the Circle.

WAPAKONETA

AUGLAIZE CO. FAIR BREAKS ITS RECORD

WAPAKONETA, Sept. 20.—The big Auglaize county fair for the year 1919 is now history. The last race has been run, closing the greatest speed program ever witnessed on the Wapakoneta track.

Previous records were shattered in so many instances, that it is proper to simply say that it was the greatest ever. There was a better attendance, bigger receipts, more autos, more and better and bigger exhibits, more cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, etc., than ever before seen here.

Secretary Schaffer stated Friday morning that a conservative estimate of the Thursday attendance was placed at from 28,000 to 30,000, far in excess of anything in past local history. The receipts this year will wipe out the deficit occasioned last year by weather conditions.

Dr. W. S. Stuckey and Clarence Winget drove to the fish hatchery at St. Marys, where they received two large cans of baby bass, large and small mouthed, about 3000 in number, which were placed in the river, at the Hayes bridge northwest of the city, and also at the Harrison street bridge.

Life's close came Friday morning, to Louis J. Kolter, life long resident of Wapakoneta, at his home at 23 east Auglaize street.

The deceased was born in Wapakoneta, September 15, 1867, the son of Charles Kolter, a native of Germany, and Caroline Kolter, a native of Ohio. On the 15th of this month, last Monday, he had attained the age of 52 years.

DELPHOS

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW DELPHOS PLANT

DELPHOS, Sept. 20.—The American Road Machinery company has signed a contract for the building of their new addition to the local plant. This information was conveyed in a letter written by E. E. Berry, general manager of the company, to L. C. Landick, secretary of the Community club which was received late Thursday.

The letter states that the contract has been let to the H. K. Ferguson company, of Cleveland, Ohio, and that their company is very anxious to begin the erection of the new building, at once.

Jos. Buessing was struck by an automobile on Main street Thursday evening. Mr. Buessing was riding south on Main street at the time and was approaching Second street when an auto was backed from the west side of the street in front of his machine. Mr. Buessing averted in toward the curb on the west side of the street in order to avoid a collision. A Ford turned into Main street from Second at the same time and also headed in toward the curb on the west side of the street to avoid the other car. The Ford struck Mr. Buessing, knocking him from the motorcycle. He was not injured, however, and the motorcycle was only slightly damaged.

E. B. Walkup, of Ottawa, one of the old-time citizens of Delphos, was in the city for a short visit Thursday. Mr. Walkup was formerly owner and editor of the Courier and was one of the prominent citizens of this community.

After leaving Delphos, he was for a number of years editor of the Putnam County Gazette. He and Mrs. Walkup are now planning to move from Ottawa, to Hope, Arkansas, where he is interested in a lumbering business which is conducted by his son, Roscoe.

VAN WERT

SKULL FRACTURE AS BOY HIT BY AUTO

VAN WERT, Sept. 20.—The condition of Guy Armstrong, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong of Middle Point, injured in an accident, was described at the Van Wert hospital, where he was brought, as being very good and it is believed that he will recover.

The accident in which young Armstrong was injured happened about 2 o'clock. He was riding a bicycle and was struck by a machine driven by J. G. Coombs, the fender of the machine hitting the bicycle and throwing the boy off, his head striking the machine and his skull being fractured by the force of the fall. Immediately after the accident the boy was taken to the hospital and at first it was believed that he had been fatally injured. It was stated, however today that he will probably recover.

Mrs. W. H. Witten died at her home south of Ohio City Friday evening after an illness of two months from paralysis. She has been quite ill for the past week. She is survived by one son, Ralph Witten and three adopted children, Mrs. Harold Bolton, with whom she made her home, and Doris Witten and Darrel Witten who are at home.

The funeral will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, at her late home.

C. A. Smith, carpenter, 512 North Jackson street, says: "A year ago I had some trouble with my kidneys brought on by a cold which settled in them. It gave me a great deal of pain through my back. My kidneys ached too often and the secretions were scanty and burning in passage. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they soon regulated my kidneys and relieved me of the pain. STRIKERS DECLINE OFFER OF PLANT FROM EMPLOYERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. When the employees of the Goldsmith Stern and Company, one of the largest jewelry manufacturing concerns in the United States, threatened to strike unless they were granted a 25 per cent increase in wages, August Goldsmith, head of the company, offered them the entire plant at its appraised value of $200,000, and his own services for six months without pay in helping them to run it. His offer was refused.

This was learned from Mr. Goldsmith today. He said he offered the plant on an easy payment basis. The workmen told Mr. Goldsmith that his offer of the plant was "too big for them" he said. They walked out ten days ago and the plant has been idle ever since.

Fails to Kiss Pershing, Loses Her $100 Wager

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—One fair war worker faces the loss of $100 as the loss of a wager that she would kiss General Pershing before he left Washington. As the expeditionary commander was leaving a hotel last night where he had attended a function in his honor, a comely young woman who had edged her way to the front of the crowd surrounding the entrance made a rush for him. Members of the General's staff grabbed her, but not until she had an arm around General Pershing's neck and was struggling to kiss him. Her act was a signal for a grand rush on the part of other feminine members of the crowd and General Pershing literally had to dive into his waiting car.

In the meantime the young woman apparently thinking an explanation of her precipitate action was due, explained she had wagered $100 that she would kiss General Pershing before he left Washington.

Notes For The Farmer

EXTENSION DIRECTOR
RESIGNS FROM O. S. U.

Clark S. Wheeler, director of the Agricultural College Extension Service of the Ohio State University, has tendered his resignation to become effective November 1. At that time he will become assistant to the sales manager of the Domestic Engineering Co., of Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. Wheeler entered the employ of the University on part time even before his graduation in 1912 and, immediately after receiving his degree from the College of Agriculture, became extension specialist in farm crops. Following the resignation of A. B. Graham as director of extension in 1914, he was appointed supervisor of extension schools and a few months later appointed extension director.

Mr. Wheeler has not only witnessed the growth of extension work from the passage of the Smith-Lever Act in 1914, but as director has had the task of establishing and working out for Ohio much of the organization for this work as it exists to-day.

The extension work of the College of Agriculture includes the supervision of county agricultural agent work, boys' and girls' club work, farmers' institutes, and extension schools, as well as the work of a corps of specialists who give demonstrations in co-operation with county farm bureaus. Bulletins and a news information service are issued.

SOW WHEAT PROMPTLY AFTER SEED TREATMENT

A number of complaints were received last fall that wheat did not come up well after treating the seed with formaldehyde for smut prevention. In some cases this was due to failure to follow directions in giving the treatment, according to plant pathologists. In the majority of cases, however, the treated grain was kept several days or longer before sowing. Prompt sowing will prevent killing the germ.

It is recommended that wheat be treated in small lots only and sown as soon as it will go through the drill. It may be treated in the evening and sowing begun early the next morning. Some farmers treat in the evening what they can sow the following forenoon and in the morning what they can sow in the afternoon. Small lots are more easily and thoroughly treated and there is less danger of loss in case rainy weather should delay seeding.

Wheat may be treated by the sprinkling formaldehyde method or, if very smutty, by the soaking and skimming method. Directions may be obtained from the county agent or from the Agricultural College Extension Service of the Ohio State University.

FAITH IN TILE REWARDED

A few years ago F. L. Allen, then in debt for his 125-acre farm in Geauga County to the extent of $1,500, he borrowed $1,200 more and purchased a ditching machine. He had come to the conclusion that the farm would never pay for itself until it was drained. His neighbors were skeptical, but the local banker had confidence in the man who was willing to put his faith in tile to such a test. After planning his drainage system in detail, Mr. Allen began laying the tile as time permitted and funds were available. He found he could put in from 125 to 150 rods of tile per day to an average depth of 30 inches. In a relatively short time the whole farm was systematically drained with a network of 25 miles of tile. A neighbor began to absorb some of Mr. Allen's enthusiasm, and the ditching machine went visiting. After draining these two farms thoroughly, another neighbor became convinced and the machine was sold for $300. The debt on the farm has long since disappeared and Mr. Allen has become a confirmed enthusiast in ditching. What seemed like a serious risk proved to be a most excellent investment.

MABEL NORMAND AT THE LYRIC

Nowadays a successful photoplay is like a well-wrought novel. It is replete with bits of detail that make for greater verisimilitude, small in themselves but large in effect. Mabel Normand's Goldwyn Pictures are examples of this, and in "When Doctors Disagree," her newest, the value of trenchant play is perhaps seen at its best.

The farce opens with a May party such as one sees in a country town. The mayor presides and the richest girl, of course, is slated for the queen's honors. Mabel Normand, as Millie Martin, the poorest, watches the festivities from the top of a tree. There is the village band with the usual perspiring trombone player the sawing fiddler, the flouting flutist and all the rest. Near by a flash discloses a freakie-faced girl licking a lemon. The disaster which overtakes the trombone player is easily imagined. It is photographed with acutely ludicrous effect and serves as a graphic bit to establish the spirit of the farce.

From that point the fun develops, reaching an uproarious height when Millie precipitates the May queen into a stagnant pool and the girl reels back to her court with her gaunt figure to cruelly silhouetted by wet and filmy garments. Photographically, too, the production is replete with original effects. One of them shows with what result a window shade can be lowered without interrupting the action. The exterior of a house is seen with light streaming from a window. The shade descends quickly and instead of flashing to the interior, the room dissolves into the scene. There is not the slightest interruption of the spectator's interest. A trifle, of course, but it is by trifles that any art is advanced.

"When Doctors Disagree," in which Mabel Normand comes to the Lyric Theatre beginning Sunday embodies a score of details which make it artistic.

B. & O. Plans to Promote Safety

Bima officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railway have received information to the effect that a nation wide safety campaign under the auspices of the United States railroad administration will be held from October 18 to 31. The purpose of the campaign is to enlist the 2,000,000 employees of the country's railroads to be on the alert to prevent any accident to one of their number, and to see to it that no worker is killed.

Dayton Americans to Play Fourth Game of Series Against Locals Tomorrow.

SPORTS

DAYTON AMERICANS WILL PLAY LOCALS

Should They Win Tomorrow Extra Game Will Be Played Here Sept. 28

(By JAMES F. BURBA.)

The Dayton Americans will perform against "Our Boys" on the local lot tomorrow afternoon, and a contest will be staged that is going to mean a heap to the local management, for should the Gem City aggregation capture the event it will necessitate the rubber being played off Sunday, September 28, and the locals have already booked that date with Harry Clark's Pudding gang.

Not only that, but Manager Holoran has agreed to pay the Dayton team an extraordinary sum in the event the visitors win tomorrow's struggle. So, for these two reasons it is very essential that "Our Boys" capture the game.

The Dayton aggregation needs no introduction to the local fans for it has already performed in three games here. The first two were taken by the locals, while the bunch from the National Cash Register city has taken one.

They are ballplayers who fight every inch of the way, and the word beaten doesn't appear in their vocabulary until time has been called in the final frame.

However, the locals have no fear of Dayton capturing tomorrow's struggle. With Bill Sykes on first base strengthening the morale of the men as well as the club fielding, the Liba aggregation should keep the bacon right here at home.

It is very probable Hikes will work on the mound for the visitors as he is very anxious to get revenge for the drubbing handed him some weeks ago. Pierce will fill for the local outfit.

With the Trotters

Trotters and pacers have not reached the end of the racing season on the half-mile tracks, even if the end is in sight. During next week they will be very busy at Sandusky, Mansfield, Mt. Pleasant, Bellefontaine, Seneca, Canton and Troy, in Ohio; at North Manchester, in Indiana; Michigan cuts in with a big week, meetings being held at Hillsdale, Berlin, Charlotte, Escanaba and Saginaw; while Pennsylvania sessions of the harness horses are at Allentown, New Brighton and Hanover.

The recent performance of the young stallion, Darvester, by The Harvester, at Indianapolis, did not receive the attention in the public prints that it deserved, although turf papers spoke glowingly of it. Darvester trotted in 2:06 1/4, and earned this record only a few weeks after pacing in 2:04 1/4 at Toledo. He is now the world's double gaited champion and stands out because both of his records were gained in a single season. He is owned by Forest Park Farm, Terre Haute, Ind., and received his training this year over the Terre Haute half-mile track, being in the stable of Billy Fleming.

Walter Cochato, the Indiana pacer that was such a consistent winner on both the Grand Circuit and half-mile tracks, only a few seasons back, is gaining attention as a sire. He has three pacers racing this year. Myron Cochato, Walter R. and Baroness Cochato that all seem to be the making of fast-record horses. Walter is four and has gained a heat record of 2:07 1/4, which still leaves him eligible to the fast stakes next year.

Pennant Dope

If Cleveland could win all of its seven remaining games the White Sox would have to win one of their seven to retain the lead.

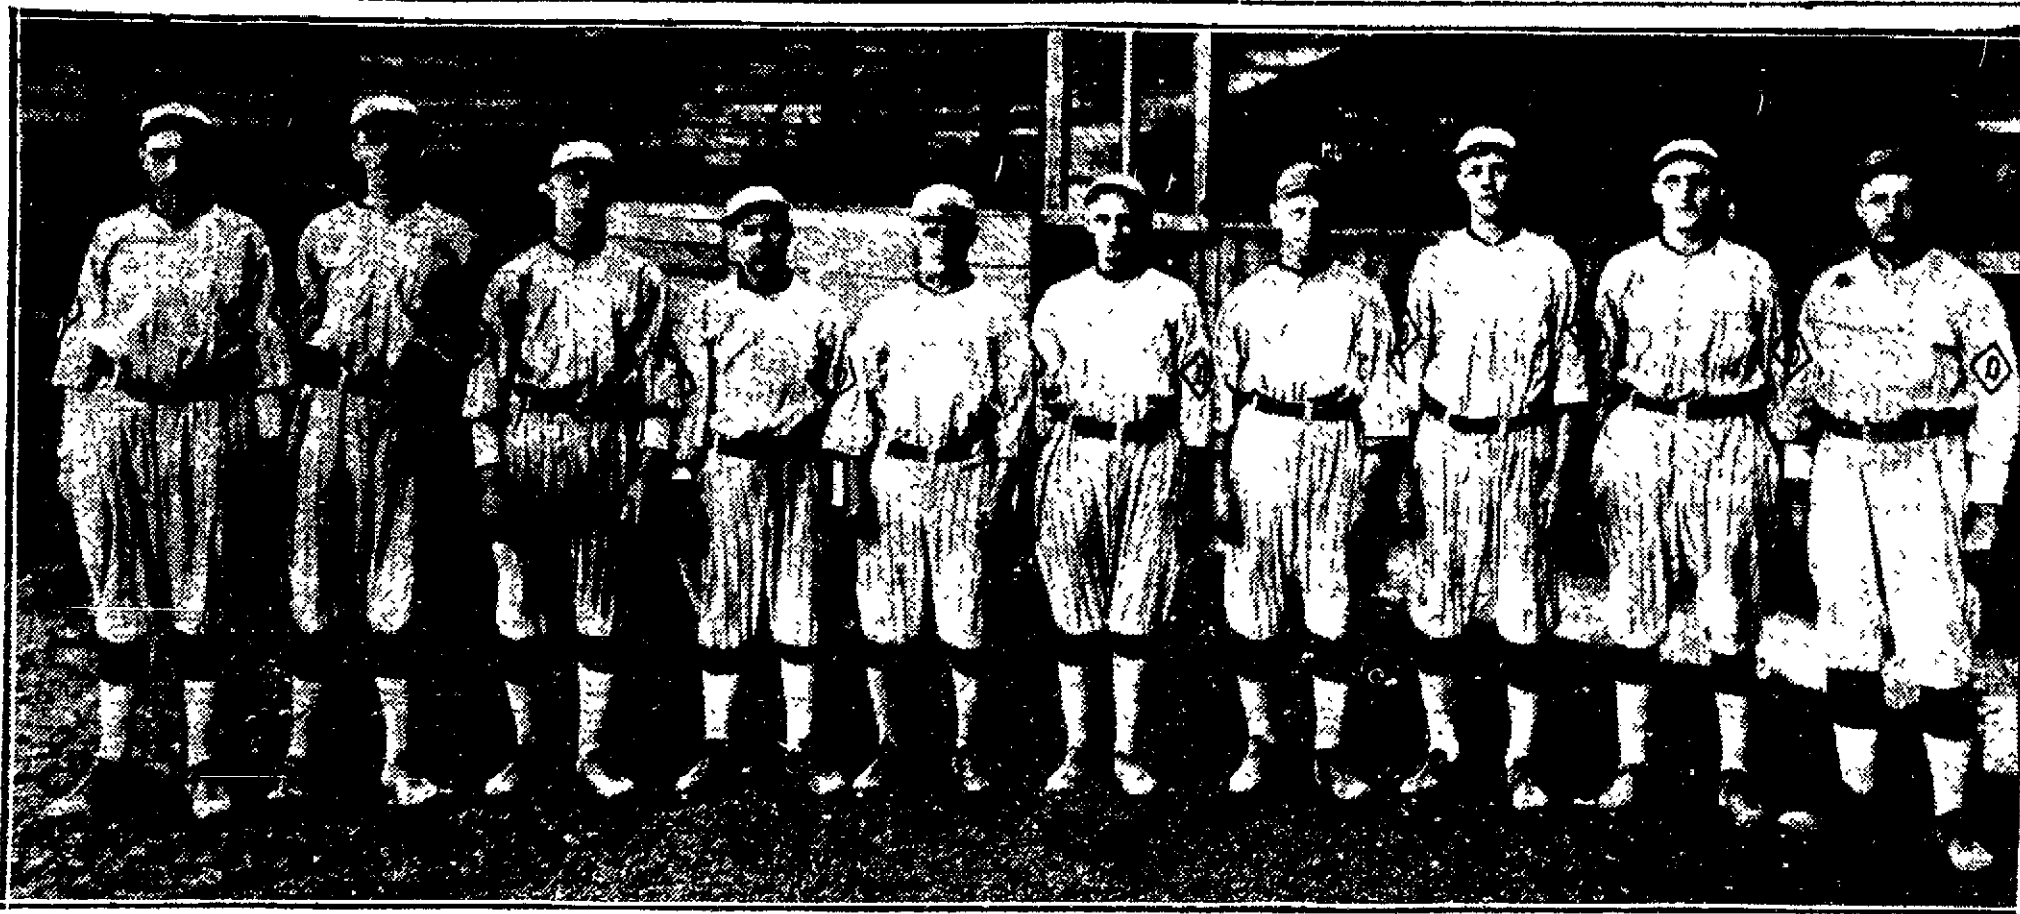

Sox Get Noyes From Athletics

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The Chicago Americans yesterday obtained Pitcher Winn Noyes, of the Philadelphia Athletics, for the waiver price. He is a right-hander. Although Noyes will not be eligible to participate in the world's series, he probably will get half a share of the winner's or loser's end.

TY COBB SEEMS TO OWN TOP RUNG OF LADDER

Pinch Hitter Murphy, However, Has Larger Average Than Ty—Roush is Hitting Third in National League Which is Still Being Held By Cravath.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the American league, celebrated his 14 years as a member of a major league baseball club by stepping out in front among the basestealers last Wednesday and is showing the way in this department with 31 thefts. He also wielded the willow with great effect and climbed from tenth place among the batters of the American league who have participated in 60 games or more, to sixth place, according to averages released today. His nearest rivals for stolen base honors are Sister of St. Louis, with 27, and Cobb, Detroit, and Hooper, Boston, who are tied with 26 each.

Cobb, however, is far ahead of the regular batters with an average of .385. He is topped by Eddie Murphy, pinch hitter star of Chicago, who in 24 games has batted .478. Joe Jackson, Chicago, has relinquished his place as runner up to Cobb and Bobby Veach teammate of Detroit star, has gone in second place with a mark of .348 with Sister, St. Louis, next with .346 and Jackson fourth with .345. "Babe" Ruth, the new home run king in baseball, is in 6th place with an average of .324. Ruth, however, is topping the league in the number of runs scored, having registered 97 times. He also is far ahead in total bases with 265 and his record of 26 home runs is not in danger, his closest rival in circuit drives being Walker, Philadelphia, who has ten.

Other leading American league batters for 60 or more games: E. Collins, Chicago, .323; Heffman, Detroit, .323; Tobin, St. Louis, .322; Peckinpaugh, New York, .318;

Plagstead, Detroit, .318; Jackson, St. Louis, .317; McInnis, Boston, .313; Schang, Boston, .308; Rice, Washington, .306; Johnston, Cleveland, .302. Barber, Chicago, continued his climb among the National league batters, going from 7th to fourth place, and if he continues at his present clip, he soon will be pressing the leaders. Barber now is batting .317. Cravath, Philadelphia, is leading the batters with an average of .336, five points ahead of Thorpe, Boston, the runner up. The Philadelphia manager is in front in home runs with 11 but is being pushed by Berny Kauff, of New York, who has ten.

Roush, Cincinnati, is being pressed by Myers, Brooklyn, for total base honors. Roush has 214 total bases, while Myers has one less.

Burns, New York, moved Groh, Cincinnati, out of the scoring honors and leads his rival by one run. Burns registered 79 times while the Cincinnati captain crossed the plate 78 times.

Cutshaw, Pittsburgh, added another stolen base to his string during the week and is showing the way in the paths with 35 thefts, his closest rival being Bigbee, a teammate who pilfered 29 sacks.

Other leading National league batters for 60 or more games: Roush, Cincinnati, .324; Barber, Chicago, .317; Groh, Cincinnati, .311; Hornsby, St. Louis, .303; Myers, Brooklyn, .307; Stock, St. Louis, .305; Meusel, Philadelphia, .305; Carey, Pittsburgh, .303; Luderus, Philadelphia, .297; Young, New York, .296; Z. Wheat, Brooklyn, .296; Deal, Chicago, .295; Whitted, Pittsburgh, .294; McHenry, St. Louis, .294.

Lee Fohl to Lead Minor Show Team

Lee Fohl, who resigned as manager of the Indians on July 19, but who was continued on the Cleveland club payroll during the entire season by President James C. Dunn, and that at full salary, will probably not act as either scout or coach for the pitchers for Cleveland in 1920. It is reported in baseball circles in Chicago that Fohl is in line for a lucrative managerial job next season. It is said that two class AA clubs are negotiating for Fohl's services as pilot. Fohl is as mum as the proverbial clam as to his future, but he says he'll lend a willing ear to anything that is worth while.

With The Boxers

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Champion Johnny Kilbane will fight Eddie Morgan, the English featherweight, a six round bout at the National A. C. Philadelphia, Saturday night. Kilbane is to get over $1,000 for the scrap, which will make his end over $6,000 for two no-decision bouts in less than one week.

"Zulu Kid," the game Brooklyn Italian middleweight, has been signed up to meet Johnny Wilson, of Boston, in the star bout of 12 rounds at Bangor, Maine on next Monday night.

Champion Leonard is matched up for four fights in the West. His first will be with Charlie Metrie, the Detroit lightweight, at Detroit in October, his second with Cal Delaney, the Cleveland lightweight, at Cleveland after the Metrie bout.

WHITE SOX HAVE BETTER BUNCH OF HITTERS THAN THE REDS

Moran's Men, However, Lead American League Champs When it Comes to Fielding

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The Chicago White Sox, pennant winners of the American league, who battle the Cincinnati Reds, winner of the flag in the National league, next month, appear to be practicing hitting in preparation for the titular games. The White Sox, topped the Reds last week in batting, added another point to their average and are leading their future rivals by twenty points. The team batting of the American league club is .284 compared with .261 for the Nationals. Both clubs are topping their respective leagues in batting.

The Reds had a four point advantage in team fielding last week, and as each club advanced a point this margin remains unchanged.

Five Reds showed a gain in their batting during the past week. These include Roush, who boosted his mark from .319 to .324, Eller, Kopf, Magee and Sallee.

A like number of the White Sox also added to their averages, and these Eddie Collins leads the quintette with .323 compared with .316 last week. The others who climbed are Leibold, Flesch, Rusbarg, and Kerr. Jackson dropped a few points. Eddie Collins is topping the base stealers of each club with 31 thefts. His nearest rival on the Reds is Neale with 27.

Hennie Groh captain of the Reds has his third with Harvey Thorne, at Kansas City, and his fourth with Johnny Griffiths, of Akron, Ohio, at Denver. The dates for these bouts are also to be named in a few days. They will all be for ten rounds.

Peter Hartley had offered a match with Benny Leonard, in Hartford, Baltimore or Detroit. It is almost certain that Hartley and Leonard will box the latter part of this month at Detroit.

Having become tired of the theatrical business, Jack Dempsey, the world's champion, and his manager, Jack Kearns, disbanded their show in Philadelphia after the performance last Saturday evening. Dempsey is now anxious to fight and, according to his manager, is ready to take on any of the big fellows.

Battling Levinsky, and "Wild Burt" Kenney, of New York, and Larry Williams and Bartley Madden, of New York, will swap punches at the Armory A. A. Jersey City, Monday night in the two main bouts of the show. Both these bouts are for eight rounds.

Frankie "Young Britt" the lightweight of New Bedford, Mass., is now on his way to New Orleans, where he is slated to meet Pat Moran, the lightweight of that city, in a twenty-round bout on the night of September 22.

Dick Howell, of Bridgeport, Conn. who is trying to arrange a fifteen round bout between the two champions, Benny Leonard and Jack Britton, to be fought at Hartford, Conn. on October 12, has made Billy Gibson an offer of $5,000 for Leonard's end of the contest. While $5,000 is a nice sum of money for Benny, it is not likely that Gibson will accept it, as he figures that a bout between Leonard and Britton is worth more money.

CLIFFORD DIRECT CAUSES SORROW

Was Money Carrier and He Finished Last in First Heat and is Ruled Out

COLUMBUS, Sept. 20.—The program of racing at the Driving Park yesterday was curtailed by rain, only two heats being raced when the shower flooded the track causing a postponement until today. The 2:15 pace and the 2:13 trot were the races started, a heat being raced in each when the shower caused the suspension of operations. There was an awful smash in the pacing event in which the Murphy entry, Clifford Direct, sold favorite at $500; Dan J. $25; Plucky Dillard and the Atrship, $175 each; sister Norte, $55; Abbe Bond, $70; Frank Little, $60 and the field, $65. Clifford Direct broke and finished last in the first heat, and under the conditions covering the race is ruled out, the last horse in each heat going to the barn.

Lou Todd the favorite, came from behind and won the first heat of the 2:13 trot in the rain. The 2:03 pacers were scoring for the first heat when the storm broke and all hurried to shelter. In this event Lillian T. sold for $400; Roy Graton, $250 and the field for $100. The card will be doubled up tomorrow, racing starting at noon.

saw the error of his way and came through with a profuse apology for his action in refusing to put on a uniform and play third base on Thursday. He admitted that he had acted very hastily and expressed regret for his conduct. The Red leader forgave him fully after giving him a little talk on the obligation of contracts.

Manager Moran pointed out to Hank that this was no more than fair, as Duncan has earned a regular position on the team and will play in every game of the series and is also the probable regular for left field next season. Schrieber acknowledged the justice of this view and now he is in good and regular standing again.

Once the turtle beat the hare —Once

ONCE the fire insurance on your property ran close to its value. Now the value has far outstripped the insurance and a fire would mean a greater loss to you than ever before.

The increased value is a fine thing but the increased risk is dangerous.

For your own protection you should do two things—now. First, increase your insurance and second, reduce the chance of fire. The Hartford Fire Insurance Company offers you this double protection at the mere cost of the insurance premiums.

Let us explain this new service which gives you every means of preventing a fire and adequate, reliable insurance in case a fire does occur, despite your precautions.

STOCKS AFFECTED BY LABOR TROUBLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Stocks recorded lowest prices of the week during today's two hour session on further selling precipitated by labor conditions. United States Steel fell a fraction over a point, allied shares broke one to five and motors which are dependent on stable industrial conditions, lost 3 to 8. Sympathetic reactions of one to three points were made by equipments, oils, coppers and leathers, rails also losing one to two. Tobacco and a few specialties, notably American Linseed and National Lead were conspicuously strong. Rallies in the later dealings reduced some of the more extreme declines. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 450,000 shares.
